

Confessions of a Late Bloomer

Reviews

KTLA loved Confessions of a Late Bloomer!

“One of the best shorts I've seen in years. Charming, witty and brilliantly shot!”

- Ross King, Entertainment Anchor KTLA

Film Threat gives Confessions of a Late Bloomer Three Stars!

“Late Bloomer harkens back to Angus and shows like Freaks and Geeks”

“McGowan’s enthusiastic direction is bright and very pleasing to look at”

“Late Bloomer is a fun fifteen minutes”

“Funny!”

“Late Bloomer is ultimately an accurate and comedic depiction of the woes of high school life.”

- Felix Vasquez Jr., Film Threat

Entertainment Insiders gives Confessions of a Late Bloomer Three Stars!

“Jen McGowan's insightful and entertaining short film Confessions of a Late Bloomer is a pint sized teenage comedy that hones in smartly on one kid's high school struggle.”

“Tyler Chase is very good” as Donny whose “experimentation is a hoot”

“The direction is energetic! I loved it!”

“tight, brisk” and “funny”

“Confessions of a Late Bloomer will likely remind you that high school might suck, but without those youthful experiences and struggles, adulthood would suck more.”

- Jonathan Hickman, Entertainment Insiders

Fanboy Planet calls Confessions of a Late Bloomer...

“A clever premise...brutally, embarrassingly honest”

“Director McGowan clearly has a light touch with her actors” and

“though clever with the camera, she always keeps the story at the fore”

“The creators have a keen insight into the rough world of being an underdeveloped fifteen-year-old boy”

- Derek McCaw, Fanboy Planet
